

PROJECT FACT SHEET (20 FEB 04)

PROJECT: Camp Scott Wetlands Environmental Infrastructure Improvement Project

DESCRIPTION: The City of Fort Wayne, Indiana, has devised a solution to reduce wet weather basement flooding and backups from storm and sanitary sewers in the combined sewer system of the inner city. The City plans to create a 25-acre wetland at Camp Scott, a former World War II prisoner of war camp that is currently an abandoned wood lot and the site of illegal trash disposal, and to divert storm water from nearby residential areas for temporary storage. Subsequent water use would be to irrigate a neighboring municipal golf course.
